File Petitions

HARRISBURG (AP) — Two incumbent Democratic congressmen—Francis E. Walter of Easton and William J. Green Jr. of Philadelphia—filed Thursday to seek reelection this year.

Incumbent state senators either filed or being reported Tuesday included Democrats William J. Lane of Brownsburg and Republican Robert D. Fleming of Pittsburgh. Two former state senators also were among those listed as filing: Rowland B. Mahany of Titusville, former Senate Republican leader, and Anthony J. Cavalcante, Uniontown Democrat. Mahany will seek the seat being vacated by Sen. Raymond P. Shafer, Republican organization candidate for lieutenant governor.

Bill For More Seats Is Killed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to increase membership of the House from 435 to 438 founded Thursday in a sea of complicated and conflicting parliamentary pressures.

The measure would have restored single seats to Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Missouri. It was submerged by a House voice vote that sent it back to committee. Its supporters conceded later it is drowned, permanently.

When the slowdown came, the measure was abandoned even by its chief pilot, Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts. He had steered it skillfully from near-oblivion to what seemed like virtually certain passage.

Find Recorder Of Fatal Plane

NEW YORK (AP) — Searchers Thursday found the flight recorder that may give clues to the cause of the crash of a jet airliner into Jamaica Bay on March 1 with a loss of 95 lives.

The orange-painted sphere, somewhat larger than a basketball, is constructed so as to protect instruments inside from heavy impact.

"The recorder was intact," said Edward E. Slattery Jr., a staff member of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Battles Flare In South Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Running battles between government forces and Communist guerrillas flared over much of the southern third of South Viet Nam Thursday.

Casualties mounted on both sides as Viet Cong guerrillas began striking hard, sometimes in units of 1,000 men, and the government struck back even harder.

In what was shaping up as the biggest military struggle since South Viet Nam became independent in 1954.

Informed sources estimated 1,000 men have been killed, wounded or captured on the two sides in the last 12 days.

Mobs Riot In Santo Domingo

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Destructive mobs roamed the streets and demonstrated in front of the U.S. consulate Thursday protesting the unheralded departure from the country of a former president and a former armed forces chief.

Former President Joaquin Balaguer and Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria, former armed forces chief, were put on separate planes Wednesday night and sent to San Juan, Puerto Rico, without prior notice.

The mobs protested they should have been put on trial, and charged the U.S. State Department was instrumental in the men's departure.

McClelland Out Of Gov. Race

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Commissioner William D. McClelland of Allegheny County withdrew Thursday as a potential candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

McClelland cited two principal reasons for his decision—a desire for party harmony and lack of support from Philadelphia Democrats.

In his announcement at a news conference, Dr. McClelland said he still is opposed to the idea of the party's candidates for governor and U.S. senator coming from the same county.

U.S., Russia To Swap Culture

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new two-year agreement providing for an expanded exchange of culture between the United States and Russia was signed Thursday.

Both sides hailed it as a step forward in Soviet-U.S. relations.

The pact, replacing one that expired Dec. 31, was signed in a State Department ceremony which climaxed negotiations that have been under way since Jan-

E. Bangor Seeks Admission To Bangor School Jointure

BANGOR — Initial steps for the establishment of a seven-district school jointure in the Sibley Belt were taken last night when members of the East Bangor Board met with members of the six member boards of the Bangor Area Joint School System.

Following individual caucuses of the seven boards, a resolution was adopted requesting Northampton County School Board and the State Dept. of Public Instruction approval of the new jointure.

The six districts which are presently members of the jointure also caucused individually and authorized the secretary and the president of each board to sign articles of agreement with East Bangor as soon as state and county approval is secured.

East Bangor made formal application for admittance to the Bangor Jointure at its regular meeting Monday. Previously, East Bangor had sought to join the Pen Argyl Jointure, but the request was turned down by both the county board and the state. East Bangor's membership in the Bangor Jointure is in accordance with county and state plans.

Following the action of the seven boards, an executive session of all board members was held to explain details of the jointure agreement to the East Bangor representatives.

Herbert P. Crane, financial advisor to the Bangor Area Jointure, is presently preparing financial figures for the seven-area jointure.

Army headquarters confirmed the aerial action and said normal operational activity continues along the frontier.

French Bombers In Algerian Action

ALGIERS (AP) — Rocket-firing French bombers went into action Thursday along the Tunisian-Algerian frontier, intervening in a roaring artillery duel between Algerian rebels and French troops.

French authorities in the east Algerian seaport of Bone said scores of warplanes refueled in Bone throughout the day.

The planes—American-built B-57 light bombers and French Mystere jets—gave air support to French troops at the frontier, where thousands of cannon and mortar shells have been fired since French and rebel negotiators met in Evian, France, to show it is still a valid military force.

The Algerian Nationalist Press Service in Tunis said the rebels opened up with field guns and mortars all along the frontier Tuesday night.

Atty. Niehoff Candidate For Senator

ATTY. Carl Niehoff, of Lehighton, will seek the Democratic senatorial nomination for State Senator from the 14th district, which includes Monroe County.

Niehoff, veteran Carbon County attorney and public servant, received the unanimous nomination yesterday of the Four-County Democratic Committee. The Committee includes members from Pike, Wayne, Monroe and Carbon Counties, comprising the 14th State Senatorial District.

The veteran campaigner will oppose incumbent Senator William Z. Scott in the General Election.

Attorney Niehoff served four consecutive terms as District Attorney of Carbon County, from 1943 until 1959, the only man in the County's history to serve in that office for 16 years.

The nominee is a 1924 graduate of Lehighton High School and a 1928 graduate of Lafayette College, Easton, where he received a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Economics.

Following a five-year teaching career (history and social studies) in Lehighton High School, he enrolled in Dickinson Law School where he completed his first year of law studies. He transferred to Temple University Law School where he received his Law Degree in 1936.

Niehoff was admitted to the Carbon County Courts and the Pennsylvania Supreme Court in 1941. In the five year interim, Attorney Niehoff took special post graduate work in education and history at Muhlenberg College and Pennsylvania State University.

Niehoff presently conducts an extensive legal practice in his hometown of Lehighton and is solicitor to the Carbon County Commissioners. He is also solicitor of the Lehighton Area Union School District and the School District's Building Authority.

Attorney Niehoff is well known throughout eastern Pennsylvania, having served as Clerk of Census Enumerators during the 1940 Census in Monroe, Carbon and Northampton Counties. He also directed the National Defense Training Program for Northeastern Pennsylvania during World War II as well as Carbon County's Civilian Defense during the War.

The 55 year old Attorney is married to the former Mary Simons, of Lehighton. The couple have four children.

Niehoff, who was informed of his unanimous choice, following the nominating session in the Carbon County Court House, Jim Thorpe, stated:

"My entire life has been spent in the field of public government. If elected I pledge the best of my abilities to the constituents of the 14th Senatorial District."

75 Growers Sign Up For Feed Project

SEVENTY-FIVE growers of corn and grain sorghum have signed up to take part in the 1962 Feed Grain Program, Donald Reish, chairman of the Monroe County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee announced yesterday. The sign-up period will extend through March 30.

Operation of the program, the chairman explained, is similar to the 1961 Feed grain Program.

Likewise, its objectives are the same — (1) To increase farm income; (2) to further reduce the excess feed grain stocks; (3) to reduce Government costs of farm programs;

(4) to reduce the risk of serious overproduction of meat, poultry, and dairy products; and (5) to assure consumers of fair and stable prices for these products.

All producers of corn and grain sorghum are eligible to take part in the feed grain program, which calls for the diversion of acreage formerly planted to one or more of these crops into an approved soil-conserving use. The program is voluntary, but program participation by farmers who produce these feed grain crops is required if they want to be eligible for price support on their feed grain crops, including oats, rye, and barley.

Advance payments are made at the time producers sign-up in the county office. Payments made to date total $19,773.59.

Any producer interested in this program is urged to contact the office located at 18 N. Seventh St., Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Merwin's Rites Conducted

FUNERAL services for Mrs. Rena B. Merwin, 79, of 46 E. Second St., East Stroudsburg, were held yesterday in the William H. Clark Funeral Home. Rev. P. N. Wohlbier officiated and burial was in Prospect Cemetery.

Col. Kelley, 46, is now the Director of Personnel, Office of the Chief of Engineers, Washington, D. C.

He is a native of Bowling Green, Kentucky, and a 1941 graduate of the United States Military Academy, West Point.

Responsive Crowd Greets 'Most Happy Fella' At ESSC

By ALICE HASTINGS

THE "MOST Happy Fella" opened last night on College Hill with most pleasant effects upon a large, responsive audience. This rain-and-shine California romance of an aging Italian wine-grower and the young waitress whom he has courted by mail, is given a bright, lively and understanding production by the players at the East Stroudsburg State College.

Frank Loesser did the book, lyrics and music of the show, based on Sidney Howard's Pulitzer prize play, "They Knew What They Wanted." Unusual because it is close to the operatic level as anything in the popular musical field. "Happy Fella" presents a challenge to both singers and directors. Last night the challenge was met most satisfactorily by the principals and by producer, Professor Wilfred Cilelland and director, senior Anthony Santore.

Tony Has Big Voice

Tony, the wine-grower, is played by Carl Sloat, a junior from Monroeville. The role demands a wide gamut of musical ability and know-how — his songs range from perky show tunes to full-throated romantic lines. Fortunately for the production Sloat is probably the one man from thousands of college students who has, a. the voice, and b. the technical training. He has been studying in New York for several years with the teacher who coaches Robert Merrill, among other Metropolitan stars.

One of the highlights of the show is Tony and Rosabella's (his mail order bride) fun dialogue in Act II when Rosabella is teaching Tony English. Sloat's delivery of the gay song, "Happy To Make Your Acquaintance," struck the perfect balance between archness and exuberance.

The last number which the hero renders, "My Wife She Loves Me Now," is as happy an expression of fulfillment as any "happy fella" is likely to receive, ever. Rosabella Sparkles Rosabella, played by Cassandra Febbo, sophomore from Lansdowne, is a pretty, pert waitress who, sings a wistful lyric in Scene one, Act I, "Wanting To Be Wanted," becomes properly annoyed by the bit of chicanery used by Tony in substituting his foreman's picture for his own in his mailorder courtship, and, after Tony becomes immobilized in a wheel chair, becomes both pregnant and repant in equal measure and with splendid speed.

Miss Febbo's command of the stage situation is admirable and her youthful movements and dainty presence are in strong contrast to her husband's clumsiness.

Three singing waiters give much comic relief throughout the show. Tony Messenlehner, Frank DiSimoni and Tony Santore (the director) clown cheerfully and in several cases give burlesque renditions of Italian opera. They all of them, performed with finesse.

Good Work By Many

Tony Santore, the director and comic waiter, also constructed the efficient and unobtrusive scenery. John Gantz achieved some unusually good effects with lighting, especially with the pink spotlight.

The choreography was in charge of Miss Joanne McKeag who took fine advantage of the good dance music in the show. Her "Young People Got To Dance" number delivered an athletic contrast between the youth of Rosabella and the age and the crippled leg inflicting Tony.

Her dancers include Barbara Brooks, Gail Davis, Doreen Dougherty, John Hamilton, F. Leroy Smith and Richard Wilson.

The accompanists are Elaine Shelley and Patricia Thell. Producer Cilelland wisely limited the accompaniment to the piano, and let the orchestra go by.

The play runs through Saturday and is given in the auditorium at State College. Curtain goes up promptly at 8 p.m.

The furnace was in the basement of the one-story cement block building and flames were confined to a wooden cabinet near the furnace.

Russell T. Brown, assistant fire chief, said the explosion was apparently the result of an oil leak from the feeder line into the furnace.

The parking space created will be on Main St. next to the Golden Eagle Inn. This space is reserved for the police car only.

The no parking areas will be as follows:

"No parking on west side of Pennsylvania Ave. from State St. north to Main St. on the east side of Pennsylvania Ave. from Division St. north for 60 feet.

"No parking on east side of Pennsylvania Ave. from Division St. south for 35 feet. On the east side of Pennsylvania Ave. from Division St. north for 43 feet.

"No parking on the east side of Pennsylvania Ave. from Main St. south for 20 feet. On north side of Division St. from Pennsylvania Ave. east for 20 feet.

"No parking on south side of Main St. from Pennsylvania Ave. east for 20 feet."

The tax rate will be eight mills and a $5 per capita levy was also enacted.

Other budget figures include receipts of $14,617.01 and expenditures of $14,600 for the water fund and receipts of $2,065 and expenditures of $2,060 for the highway fund.

The report of the auditors, Mrs. Ben Geshensky, Miss Barbara Drake and Mrs. John Marsh, was accepted. Francis Drake reported on area redevelopment.

It was announced that Robert E. Smith had been appointed borough civil defense director by Gov. David L. Lawrence.

Defending A Mess

Railway unions attacked the report of the Presidential Railroad Commission even before it was published, contending that somehow the distinguished public members had been won by the employers to some intolerable point of view.

But an examination of the report's summary issued by the Commission shows that no fair-minded person could have been uncritical of railway operating rules and wages as they stand. The more glaring examples of featherbedding, double pay and the like have been widely publicized, and are indefensible.

What had not been evident before the report was published was that the unions, in shaping their collective bargaining demands, had favored the cause of some of their members at the expense of others.

By clinging to the full day's pay rule for 125 mile runs, the unions had assured that senior train crews on crack passenger runs would be well rewarded for work days in the neighborhood of 4 or 5 hours. But the same rules caused some freight crews to work up to 16 hours a day to get the same pay.

Treatment of seniority rules also caused veteran employees to be laid off in one district while new men were being hired nearby for similar jobs.

The union's backwardness in revising contracts in fairness to its members sheds some light on their backwardness in accepting the modernized equipment and techniques that are necessary if the railroads are to survive as going concerns in the face of competition on the highways, the waterways and the airways.

Now there is a threat to strike the railroads unless the status quo is maintained with all its costliness, and with all its unfairness to a large portion of the union members themselves.

The Administration has gone on record against featherbedding as a costly luxury that we cannot afford in these days of international competition. There is real work to be done, and skilled workers are needed to do it.

It seems ironic that unions, which always refer to themselves as so "progressive," are so adamant that antique contracts be preserved, especially when the Commission's reports provides for easing the impact of the changes upon employees.

Colleges Flunk This Test

From time to time a college educator will bemoan the values of a country in which college teachers find rather meager financial rewards. But what of the values to be found right on campus?

A survey by the National Education Association reveals that, in the collegiate hierarchy, the teacher is low man on the totem pole. From instructor to full professor, the teacher earns a median salary of $7,486 a year. The public relations man for the college gets $7,659, the basketball coach $7,700, the football coach $8,554 and the athletic director $8,930.

There's a large range, of course, in college teaching salaries. Thousands of instructors work for less than $5,000. About 600 faculty posts in the country command salaries of more than $18,000. Even at the top, however, men in the other college positions do better. The public relations directors and the athletic directors can aim for positions paying more than $25,000.

"It's a sad kind of comparison," said Ray C. Maul, director of the NEA study. And that about sums it up.

His report showed an encouraging gain of about 10 per cent for college teaching salaries over the last two years. But there's a catch even in this. It's the failure of the small and medium-sized private colleges — the two groups on the bottom of the salary scale — to raise faculty pay at the same rate as the larger institutions.

It's no secret that the more well-heeled colleges have taken to raiding the faculties of smaller institutions, just as business and industry drain the faculties of all levels.

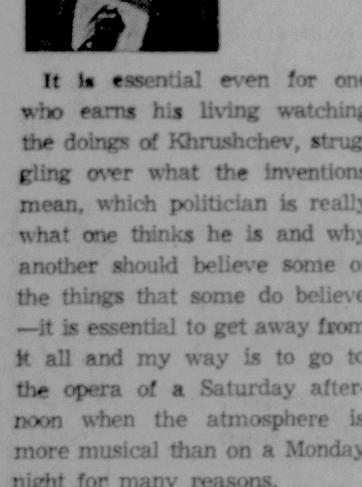

Said Dr. Maul:

"Colleges are employing more and more of less and less well-trained college faculty. If this trend continues, it seems inescapable that the over-all quality of American higher education will be weakened."

This threat is bound to become more critical with the increased student demand for higher education in this decade. The faculty pay problem is something the colleges can't solve alone. But the administrators of our colleges should at least rearrange their pay priorities so that the teachers are no longer the lowest paid members of the campus staff. —Harrisburg Patriot

An Opera Matinee

It is essential even for one who earns his living watching the doings of Khrushchev, struggling over what the inventions mean, which politician is really what one thinks he is and why another should believe some of the things that some do believe — it is essential to get away from it all and my way is to go to the opera of a Saturday afternoon when the atmosphere is more musical than on a Monday night for many reasons.

Last Saturday it was "Aida" which no singer or conductor can spoil or improve. So I settled down to a pleasant enough performance with the best lighting I have seen on any stage. After the first act, I dropped into Francis Robinson's cubby-hole of an office which I like to do because he is also a man of extremely wide culture and there is always good conversation which grows rarer these days as we limit ourselves either to the escapism of gossip or the arguing about things we know nothing about.

And we all foregathered for tea and there was Georgie Jessel and he reminded me of Sir Berkeley, he being a British knight for whatever virtues or sins one becomes such, and I climbed some stairs, which I should not do, to hear Francis Robinson speak over the radio brilliantly and beautifully about Grace Moore.

Robinson originated in Nashville, Tennessee, and is gifted with a speaking voice which reminds me of William Jennings Bryan although he is less resonant. The story he told of Grace Moore was most attractive, as she was.

And we talked of Eddie Cantor, a childhood friend, who has been ill but does not take it lightly, which everyone should do, for ills of the flesh must come to us at one time or another and one either is frightened by them or says his prayers and leaves the rest to God.

And I conjured up the days when I could only afford Standing Room to listen to Farrar and Caruso and then it became so difficult to listen to the rest of the afternoon's "Aida." For as Roland Hayes said, it is hard to know where genius will strike and one must be helpful.

And I could not help thinking of youth as I looked into the eyes of Maria Jeritza, of another generation, who when she first sang at the Metropolitan Opera stirred opera lovers as they had not been in some time. She is still beautiful, for natural beauty never fades.

So here an entire afternoon passed and no one said one word about politicians and conniving and the trickeries of life. No wonder musicians have such longevity — they throw off the burdens of time and live in the eternities. Or might it be that all their work requires so much it that he was in the hospital because then nobody would hire him to act. And we had several good laughs together.

Charlie lived to a good ripe age and his passing was regretted but I often see him on the Late Show or even the Late Late Show since I have become addicted to such shenanigans at bed-time.

Then there was Act III to hear and Bill Ormerod, who should be addressed as Sir Berkeley, he being a British knight for whatever virtues or sins one becomes such, and I climbed some stairs, which I should not do, to hear Francis Robinson speak over the radio brilliantly and beautifully about Grace Moore.

Viet Nam President Seeking U. S. Aid

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

WASHINGTON—President Nho Diem is seeking permission and help to shoot down Russian transport planes delivering supplies to Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in South Vietnam and southern Laos.

Forwarded to President Kennedy this week, Diem's request is being fully supported by U.S. military advisers in South Vietnam and Admiral Harry D. Felt, the hard-hitting commander of all U.S. military forces in the Pacific.

It calls for immediate U.S. approval to use South Vietnam and U.S. fighter planes to intercept Soviet planes taking part in the growing Communist airlift. An estimated 50 to 60 Russian transport planes are participating in this troop shuttling operation from Hanoi.

President Diem and his U.S. military advisers deem joint U.S.-South Vietnam offensive air action necessary to stem the steady tide of Red reinforcements and supplies pouring into the battle areas from North Vietnam.

They point out that South Vietnamese forces, despite some brilliant successes in recent anti-guerrilla operations, are still losing ground in cutting down invading Communist troops.

Don't overestimate food! It causes less skin trouble than you think. In the rush to pin the blame on the guilty, "something you ate" or "too much" is often wrongly accused.

No one eats "too much acid". Such foods don't exist.

New fat stretches skin until elastic fibers break and thick purple-red lines break out, especially on abdomen, hips and thighs. The color fades but the lines remain.

Fat-skin folds chafe under arms, breasts and along the groin. At first sore and red, these skin folds break down and ooze. Allergy-caused eczema leaves certain babies more vulnerable to this trouble.

The House Of The Week

Compact House Provides Stylish Comfort

By Jules Loh

IN THIS era of compactness, it was almost inevitable someone would come up with a "compact house."

The credit goes to architect Herbert C. Struppmann, designer of House of the Week J-9, a fine three-bedroom ranch. Like the compact car, Struppmann's excellent house design retains enough room for four or five passengers to go in comfort and style, and has plenty of extras to boot — such as a sun porch, double garage and two lavatories in addition to the main bath.

In fairness to the architect, he didn't set out to play on the "compact" idea but to design, as he put it, "a house for a young, growing family trying to make ends meet on a young, growing income."

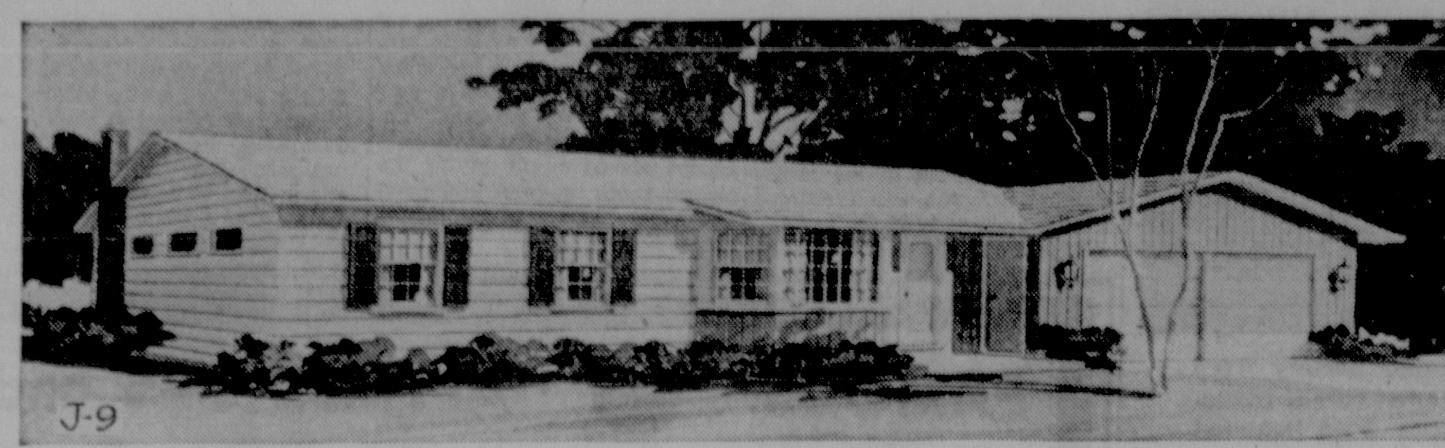

Through superb design technique, he not only has provided all the above mentioned facilities plus living room, kitchen and separate dining room in a modest 1,259 square feet of living area, but has made it possible for the 169-square-foot sun porch to be converted into a fourth bedroom and full bath if needed.

This would result in a four-bedroom house with two full baths and two half baths in 1,428 square feet — and if that doesn't qualify as a "compact house" nothing does.

Dimensions of the house are 64 feet 2 inches wide by 32 feet 6 inches deep, which means it would fit comfortably on an 85-foot lot, or, in some areas, a 75-foot lot.

From the curb, the house has good low lines with a projecting garage minimizing any boxy effect. A handsome bay window, which projects 5 feet, also enhances the exterior besides providing an interesting opportunity for living room decoration.

A window-wall in the dining room also is pushed out to form a 2-foot bay, though the foundation doesn't protrude from the house.

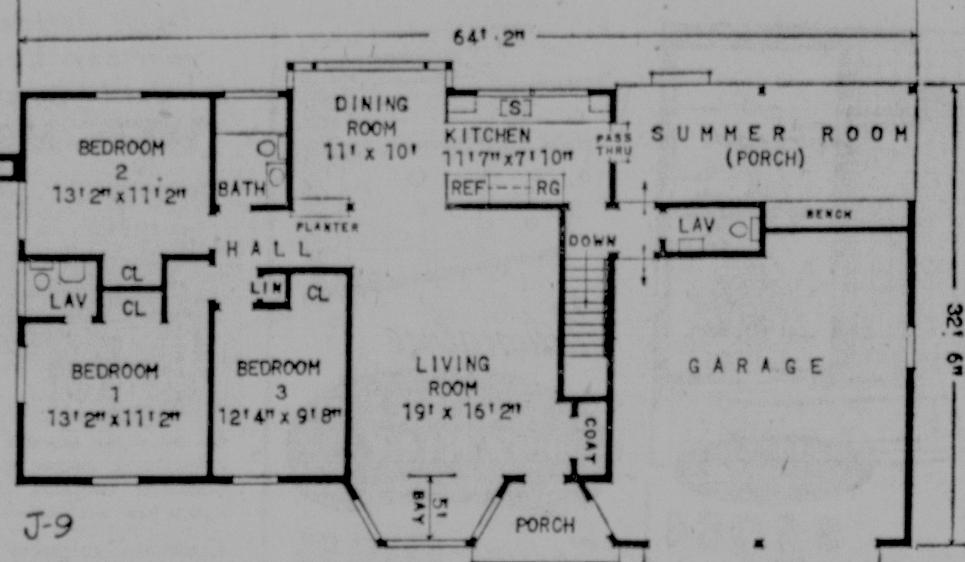

COMPACT HOUSE — Superb design technique results in packaging three bedrooms, one full bath and two half baths in this 1,259 square foot ranch. House also contains a sun porch which can be converted into a fourth bedroom and full bath, adding 169 square feet to living area.

ALTERNATE PLANS FOR DEVELOPMENT OF PORCH AREA

FLOOR PLAN — Architect provides three alternate ideas for development of 169-square-foot porch. Living area of basic house is 1,259 square feet and garage adds 427 square feet. Bay window in dining room protrudes two feet, though foundation does not deviate from straight line of back of house.

the straight line of the back of the house. The two bays complement each other, and add to the spacious effect of the 30-foot living room-dining room expanse.

Additional Details
A fourth bedroom (or maid's room, guest room, den, you name it) with private bath is only one possibility architect Struppmann offers for future development of the sun porch.

His blueprints also provide for its use as a 21-foot by 11-foot family room, ideally located off the kitchen but well isolated from the formal areas; or as a laundry and pantry combination.

The latter suggestion would accommodate a 10 feet by 9 feet 6 inches pantry (with all the shelf space a room of this size provides) and a 10 feet 6 inches by 7 feet 10 inches laundry room, in which would be located the rear entry.

The beauty of the 169-square-foot area is that it can be developed at some later date — by the man of the house himself, if he's handy with tools — and tailored to the homeowners' particular needs.

Location of the lavatory adjoining the garage and summer porch is an excellent example of the technique used to package so much house in so little space. The lavatory doesn't encroach on any of the living areas of the house, yet it is ideally situated so it's convenient to the kitchen, porch and garage workbenches.

Another example is the bedroom hall with its back vestibule. Pencil in all the closet and bedroom doors, and you can more easily see how very available inch of floor space has been used to maximum advantage.

Closet space, incidentally, is entirely adequate in this house. All the bedroom closets are suitable, and the coat closet in the foyer is extra large. The basement, of course, offers ample additional storage space.

Fence On Lenin's Tomb Removed

MOSCOW (AP)—The fence around Lenin's tomb in Red Square was removed yesterday. The crowd that gathered noticed that the name of Stalin had been removed from the big black stone over the doorway.

Stalin's body was removed from the tomb last Oct. 31 and buried among several other graves in a space between the tomb and the Kremlin wall.

The silky coat of the little dog is executed with fluid brush strokes while the warm glow of pearls contrast the beautiful skin whose color is masterfully painted.

The technical and esthetic qualities of these early portraits varied. Many are cherished now by loyal descendants, but Mrs. Bowers has her likeness preserved in a museum because it bears the stamp of a great painter.

In an obituary of an artist in 1740 the Boston News Letter stated, "some of his pieces are such admirable imitations of Nature, that the pleased Eye cannot easily leave them; that though we know they are only Paints, yet they deceive the sharpest Sight while it is nearly looking on them." This can also be said of Copley, whose honest and perceptive style and painstaking craftsmanship made him the peer of 18th century American portraitists.

DO YOU have a portrait of an ancestor hanging on your walls? You are most fortunate if you have one painted by John Singleton Copley, who lived from 1735 until he died in England in 1815.

This portrait of Mrs. Jerathmael Bowers was painted in 1765. Judging from the background Copley was influenced by the English Painters, using an angry sky and dark trees to intensify the light colors of the figure.

Copley has managed to catch the refinement and elegance in this woman's face. The little lap-dog, the satin and jewels are all complimentary additions to establish her personal prestige. For in the 18th century homes not only beautiful silver pieces assured the owner of prestige but the acquisition of family portraits was an added reassurance of social position.

Auction Sale Could Finish Feuding Of Rams' Owners

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ownership of professional football's strife-torn Los Angeles Rams may be sold at public auction later this month, it was reported Thursday.

Unless the Rams' five feuding owners settle their dispute over control of the club, the only alternative will be the courts, General Manager Elvyn Hirsch said.

And, Hirsch conceded, there's remote and distasteful possibility that a judge may ask the owners to auction off the club to the highest bidder.

The possibility of an auction was cited Thursday in a front-page story by Bob Oates, Herald-Examiner sportswriter.

Millionaire Factions

There are two millionaire factions struggling for control: Dan Reeves, who brought the Rams here from Cleveland in 1946, and a group composed of Ed Pauley, Fred Levy, Hal Soley and Bob Hope.

Reeves, a stockbroker, and Pauley, an oilman, are the primary stockholders, each owning about a third interest in the partnership.

Neither was available for comment.

The partnership has been on shaky ground, oddly enough, ever since the Rams started making money here.

During the first five years in Los Angeles, the Rams couldn't catch a cold. Reeves, then sole owner, attracted the other partners in the hope of easing the financial burden.

After the Rams signed their first TV contract, the money and the arguments started rolling in. And they haven't stopped.

Because of the factionalism, the Rams, one of the NFL's most lucrative franchises, have been in the doldrums for years. They've fired coaches with abandon and have traded away players like Norm Van Brocklin, Gene Lipscomb and Del Shomer.

ESSC Girls Defeat West Chester Team

WEST CHESTER—East Stroudsburg State College closed a highly successful girls' basketball season yesterday with a 42-37 win over West Chester.

The Warriorettes collected the victory with a fourth period rally that carried them over a 31-27 West Chester lead.

Becky Ross led the East Stroudsburg scorers with six field goals and a foul shot for 13 points. Chris Albright added 12 points. Mary Lou Seasack had 11 and Glenn Simons scored 11. Lois Dawson paced West Chester with 15.

West Chester won the junior varsity game 31-22. Sue Blocher's nine points were high for East Stroudsburg.

These players from Pennsylvania received honorable mention:

Dick Lloyd, Bloomsburg (Pa.),

Willie Alford, Gannon (Pa.),

Tom Pearsall, Albright, Herb Magee,

Philadelphia Textile, Clark Mosier,

Susquehanna, Warren Sallade,

Financial Arithmetic

By William A. Doyle
Q. You worked out some arithmetic in your column for a reader who was wondering about the possible advantages or disadvantages of selling some $31,000 worth of stocks he owns and putting the money in a savings account, where his money could collect four percent interest. The dividends now being paid on your reader's stock result in a current yield of 3.3 percent.

You "proved" that, after paying a 45% capital-gains tax on his profits, he would have less money to put in a savings account and the four percent interest he would get on a savings account would provide him with little or no more income than he now receives in dividends on his stock.

Your reasoning is only valid if the man is in a high enough tax bracket to pay the top capital-gains tax of 25 percent on his profits, if the stocks he owns continue to pay the dividends they now pay and if the stocks don't fall in value. Those are big "ifs."

A. I won't deny for one minute that those are mighty big "ifs."

But the man whose letter appeared in that previous column was not interested in "ifs." He was only interested in income—either in dividends on the stocks he owns or in interest from savings accounts, where he might put his money after selling his stocks.

As has been explained here, often, you pay the top capital-gains tax of 25 percent on profits realized from selling stock (or any other capital asset) only if you are in the 50 percent or higher income tax bracket. But the column you mention also pointed out that, if that man sold all his stocks, he would have realized a profit of over $15,600. That would undoubtedly have put him in a high tax bracket. After all, we must assume that he has some other income.

That man is not worried about the possibility that the dividends on his stocks might be reduced. They happen to be excellent stocks. If anything, the dividends figure to be increased in the future.

Q. You always tell people to pay their taxes. I know why many people never report the interest and dividends they receive. Many don't want their husbands or wives to know they own stocks or bonds or have money in the bank.

I have stocks my husband now, the market value of those stocks might very well drop—from time to time. But, along with that reader, I am convinced that the market value of good stocks will increase—in the long run.

This column is not intended to try to outguess the short-term ups and downs of the stock market. This column also encourages all people to have a nice, safe savings account. And, with the high interest available on insured savings accounts these days, those accounts definitely have added appeal.

For many people, a switch from stocks (where there is always risk) into insured savings accounts can be a mighty smart move. But such a switch would not have provided more income for the man whose letter appeared in the previous column.

Q. You always tell people to pay their taxes. I know why many people never report the interest and dividends they receive. Many don't want their husbands or wives to know they own stocks or bonds or have money in the bank.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Campbell, Canadensis. Campbell is also active in the Vets Club, International Relations Club, and the Golf team at the college.
